

Decan Ruler & Tarot Correspondences

One method of integrating tarot into an astrology reading is to read the tarot card correspondence to the decan ruler of natal planets to further round out your astrological interpretation. For example, let's say the native's Moon sign is placed at 22° in Leo. The decan ruler of this Moon sign is thus Mars in Leo. Per the chart above, Mars in Leo corresponds with the Seven of Wands in tarot. In the Thoth, the associated keyword is "Valour." In the classic Rider Waite Smith imagery, we see a young man at the edge of a cliff brandishing a staff as six others are raised against him. Reading that through the lens of past lives and the Moon sign's implications in past life astrology, you see someone who often stood in the minority, having to stand your ground alone against the majority, and often in life will feel outnumbered. That theme is likely to bleed into the present life. Overall, we see prevailing themes of valor in this native's past life, someone who innately possesses a great deal of audacity and courage, especially in the face of danger or battle.
