The Thirty-Six Decans

Supplementary Guide

In traditional astrology, each zodiac sign is ruled by a triplicity of decanates, or decans. The decanate within the zodiac sign that a planet falls under in your natal chart can offer greater insights into how that planet might behave or affect that specific area of your life (corresponding to the house). There are 36 triplicities in total (3 decanates per house, 12 houses). The first decan for each house is between 1°-10°, the second between 11°-20°, and the third decan between 21°-30°.

Note: The astrological wheel pictured on the first page of this study guide is marked by the traditional decanate rulership correspondences.

Decans mark time. For example, from May 21 to May 30 of 2016, the sun is in Gemini under the decan ruler Jupiter (observing traditional rulerships) as the luminary makes its way along the ecliptic from 1° to 10°. On June 1, the Gemini sun moved under the decan ruler Mars and remains under the influence of decan ruler Mars until June 10. Then June 11 to June 19, it moves into the third decan, ruled by the Sun, before it lands on the cusp between Gemini and Cancer on June 20. Thus, while all those born between May 21 and June 20 may be Geminis, if you're born between May 21 and 30, your nuanced Gemini is going to be different from the Gemini born between June 11 and June 19, all due to decan rulership. In other words, through the decans, metaphysically space and time converge. (Noting that the Second Operation divined upon space while the Third Operation divined upon time.)
