INTRODUCTION TO TAOIST INNER ALCHEMY

Mandala of Heaven

A Spiritual Core Strengthening Practicum
IN ALIGNMENT WITH THE WAY OF HEAVEN

Become the strongest version of yourself -- physically, mentally, and spiritually. As ambitious as it may sound, this practicum is about mastering inner sovereignty, to hone your perception and judgment skills to such mastery that you can accurately and reliably trust them, every time. To forge stability in your life and cultivate enduring health and longevity. And thus, this is course work that cultivates leaders, the most powerful practitioners, teachers, and spiritual seekers.

The Mandala of Heaven course is a guided initiation into the classical Taoist inner alchemy tradition, and yet at the same time, it is not culture- or tradition- specific, but rather, can be integrated and adapted into any tradition of practice. This course strengthens your vitality, sharpens your mind, purifies emotional clutter, and ignites the inner spiritual circuitry that connects your body to the cosmos.

In other words, this coursework presents a tried-and-true method, steeped in centuries-old mystical traditions and history, that will empower a beneficent alignment and connection to what we call the Mandala of Heaven. What you will be able to accomplish after such an alignment is established is limitless and entirely up to you, be it improved health and wellness or achieving the conventional metrics of success and prosperity, to improved psychic cognition and abilities, spiritual transcendence, or alchemical Return to union with the Tao.

The Way of Heaven 天之道

The characters “周天” (Zhou Tian), either in artful calligraphy or oracle bone script, often appear on Chinese divination tools. The word itself is considered a “True Name” (真名, zhēn míng) and the Mandala, the Zhou Tian 周天, when depicted with particular diagrams and symbolism, is the chart of a “True Form” (真形圖, zhēn xíng tú). When inscribed onto ritual tools, the True Name or True Form empowers that tool.

But beyond the mystic’s beliefs, the Mandala of Heaven represents a methodical system of cultivation practices in Taoist inner alchemy. To guide and stabilize that practice is a doctrine called the Way of Heaven, originating from four key verses in the Tao Te Ching. That is where we begin this curriculum.

Lesser Mandala of Heaven 小周天

In this segment of your work, we will be focusing on the Lesser Mandala of Heaven, theory and practice, to strengthen your internal foundation across mind, body, and spirit. Throughout this module, focus on building inner resilience and agility, refining energy circulation, and formulating the first steps to consistent engagement with inner alchemical work.

Lesser Mandala of Heaven work is about regulating the body, mind, and spirit so that you are prepared for alignment with the Greater Mandala of Heaven work. Throughout the practical work you are doing during Part I, frequently review the Way of Heaven principles to ensure your personal alignment.

👉 REMINDER: Log your experiences with the Mandalas work in the back pages of your course book. On a calm Sunday, do the guided meditation with the video companion. Afterward, take an additional 10 minutes to sit with how your body, mind, and spirit feel. Record your impressions with date and time in the course book.

Greater Mandala of Heaven 大周天

In this segment of your work, we will be focusing on the Greater Mandala of Heaven, which in Taoist inner alchemy, doesn't refer to a single technique (the way, say the Lesser Mandala does). It refers to the celestial and earthly cycles of the cosmos, which your internal energy systems are intended to be in alignment with. Thus, the Greater Mandala work is about any rectification that may be needed to ensure harmonious alignment between inner and outer.

Which is why the Greater Mandala is a lot harder to define. The Lesser Mandala seems simple enough: that microcosmic orbital breathwork exercise that helps you to regulate and strengthen your internal Jing, Qi, and Shen. Whereas here with the Greater Mandala, it's about learning to observe and understand the macrocosmic orbital flow of cosmic Jing, Qi, and Shen, and then realizing for yourself how you can put yourself in resonance with that flow.

What appears to be tangents into theory, like the Lo Shu nine-sector magic square (which is the Taoist blueprint of the Heavens, and also of the temporal realm) and encouragement to learn astrology and build a personal spiritual/religious practice, are in fact directly instrumental to helping you attain the Greater Mandala.

Optional Bonus: The Origins of Mystical Taoism

For cultural and historical context, we'll trace the origins of Taoist alchemy back 3,000 years to Wu shamanism. The supplemental lecture outline that you can download covers a wide breadth of doctrines and traditional practices found in Taoist alchemy, and shows you where in history these practices came from. The second video includes a section on inner and outer alchemy basics.
